ADVANCE DIRECTIVES

(To keep a copy of your Advance Directive in your chart is OPTIONAL)

For patients 18 and older:

Advanced care planning refers to a process of mapping out the types of medical and non-medical care you would like to receive at some future point should a life-threatening or terminal disease make it impossible for you to express your wishes at that time. While this conversation results in a document, it is more than just a piece of paper. It is an effort to better educate you about alternatives regarding the end-of-life and an opportunity to educate physicians, spouse, family and others about your values, goals and wishes related to end-of-life care. This communication between you and your provider can be done at any time; preferably when you are younger and still healthy. Once completed, it should be revised on a regular basis (every 5 years or after any potentially life-changing event, such as a marriage, divorce, death of a spouse, or the onset of a life-threatening disease)

An Advance directive is a legal document that states a person's wishes about receiving medical care if that person is no longer able to make medical decisions because of a serious illness or injury. It allows you to spell out your decisions about end-of-life care ahead of time and give you a way to tell your wishes to your family, friends and health care professionals to avoid confusion. It may also give a person (such as a spouse, relative or friend) the authority to make medical decisions for another person when that person can no longer make decisions. There are different types of advance directives, including a living will, durable power of attorney (DPA) for healthcare, and do not resuscitate (DNR) orders.

You might want to include instructions on

- The use of dialysis and breathing machines
- If you want to be resuscitated if your breathing or heartbeat stops
- Tube feedings
- Organ or tissue donation

PLEASE CHECK ONE OF THE STATEMENTS AND SIGN BELOW:

- I have an Advance Directive in effect
- I do NOT have an Advance Directive in effect currently. I have read and understand the above information on Advance Directives
